

NEW BUDGET RAISES SALARIES $6,000,000

Plant Department, Headed by Hyman's Friend Whalen, Gets Big Boost.

HEARING SET TO-DAY

Mayor Attacks President of Citizens Union on Dry Law Charge.

SCHIEFFELIN EXPLAINS

Fewer Than Half of Proposed Advances in Pay Roll Mandatory.

Although Mayor Hyman said Friday that "unless an error crept in" the proposed budget for 1923 contains no salary increases other than those that are mandatory, an analysis of the budget yesterday disclosed increases for "personal services"—salaries—in the principal city departments of more than $6,000,000, less than half of this amount being mandatory. The amount of the proposed budget is $361,767,565, an increase of about $11,000,000 over 1922.

The police and firemen were raised by act of the Legislature. They receive payroll increases of $1,912,576 and $478,204, respectively. Other departmental employees were raised by the Board of Estimate in executive session, and the proposed figures were not known publicly until Monday.

Some of the increases sanctioned by the board are: Public Welfare, $555,470; Health, $21,647; Correction, $29,961; Docks, $35,950; Water, Gas and Electricity, $647,321; Street Cleaning, $1,050,341; Tenements, $229,486; Commissioner of Accounts, $27,488; Licenses, $2,427; Markets, $129,038; and Plant and Structures, $916,678.

The Board of Estimate will hold a public hearing on the proposed budget at 10:30 this morning in City Hall.

Consider Reductions.

Another executive session of the board was held yesterday, at which ways of reducing the proposed total were considered. The law permits reductions and transfers until midnight next Tuesday, October 31.

Before the meeting Mayor Hyman sent for newspaper men and made a statement attacking William Jay Schieffelin, president of the Citizens Union.

"I see the Citizens Union has had something to say about the budget," Mr. Hyman said, referring to a statement in which that organization had called attention to the newly created office of assistant to the Mayor at $9,000 a year, and other high points.

"I want the people to know that the head of the Citizens Union is one Schieffelin, and those who want to know about him and certain wet goods will be interested in this pamphlet."

Then the Mayor read from a wine list quoting prices on champagne, cognac, whiskey, etc.

"I'm going to notify the Police Department," Schieffelin continued. "I thought that Schieffelin & Co. were wholesale druggists. It is a joke when the Citizens Union attempts to make those persons who are making up the budget, I don't see their criticism enforcement of the prohibition law."

Says Union Obeys Law.

When told what the Mayor had said Mr. Schieffelin answered:

"We are obeying the Volstead law absolutely. We are not the illegal druggists who have permits under the Volstead law and are known as permitted druggists."

The proposed budget was regarded as a step backward instead of forward by the United Real Estate Owners Association because it lacks the "tell-tale" parallel figures of comparison with the preceding year, which the 1922 budget possessed.

"It is therefore impossible to compare either the itemized or total figures of 1922 with 1923," the association set forth in a published statement, "without lumping up the 1922 figures and entering them against the 1923 figures, which it is impossible to do, so far as the itemized figures are concerned, in time for the public hearings October 25 and 26."

Besides the new "Assistant to the Mayor" job hundreds of new positions are created by the proposed budget, ranging from clerical to high, in time for the new chief engineer for the Department of Plant and Structures at $28,000 a year.

Plant and Structures is one of the most favored in new jobs and in salary raises. This department is under fire from the Transit Commission, which is investigating the city's bus system. Its Commissioner, James A. Murray, one of Mayor Hyman's closest friends and advisers.

Increase Summarized.

The budget list summary gives the total departmental increase over 1922 as $1,422,257. The 1923 total is $3,235,855. It is divided as follows:

Total	1922	1923	Increase
Personal	$2,205,400	$4,204,385	$2,000,000

Teachers Demand Garage For Their Automobiles

Twenty teachers in the public schools of Nutley, N. J., appeared last night before their Board of Education to ask for garages near the schools for their automobiles. Richard W. Mitchell, president of the board, said:

"Why don't you bring your fivers into the school house and hang them up in the cloakroom?"

After that remark the board voted 8 to 1 to refuse the request for garages. The teachers complained that they did not like to leave their automobiles outside during school hours.

FIGHT FOR $1 GAS IN BRONX BEATEN

Referee Holds Statutory Rate Has Been Confiscatory Since 1919.

Litigation started by the Bronx Gas and Electric Company in March, 1920, to restrain the city, the Attorney-General and the Public Service Commission from enforcement of the $1 rate in the company's territory moved a step nearer conclusion yesterday with the filing in the Supreme Court of the report of George V. S. Williams, a referee.

Mr. Williams was a Public Service Commissioner under Gov. Glynn. He sustains the company's contention that the statutory rate had been confiscatory since 1919. His findings will have no effect on the rate of $1.45 a thousand cubic feet, which became effective October 1. Prior to this and since August, 1919, under a temporary injunction, the company charged $1.50 a thousand cubic feet.

The statutory rate of $1 was provided confiscatory as to this company by so wide a margin that it seems almost superfluous to attempt to establish in detail, Mr. Williams wrote, "under no method of calculation or basis of decision consistent with the controlling cases could the $1 rate be deemed anywhere near adequate for this plaintiff, at any time covered by the proofs before me. The representatives of the Corporation Counsel and the Attorney-General contested this suit with great vigor and thoroughness. They presented a great deal of evidence and cross-examined the plaintiff's witnesses at length. They were not able to present any theory of the case which would render the $1 rate non-confiscatory unless the decisions of the highest State and Federal courts were to be disregarded by me as a referee."

SHOT KILLS CHAUFFEUR MISTAKEN FOR BANDIT

Exit From Restaurant Without Paying Causes Tragedy.

Shot by a patrolman who mistook him for a bandit, Henry McCarthy, 28 years old, a chauffeur, of 357 Tenth avenue, died yesterday in Roosevelt Hospital. McCarthy was wounded last Thursday after he and three other men ran out of a restaurant at Columbus Circle without paying, and were pursued by police.

Employees of the restaurant ran after the four as they jumped into a taxicab. Patrolman Robert J. Bohan of the West Forty-seventh station, seeing the fleeing men and their pursuers, thought a holdup had taken place.

After firing twice in the air without stopping the taxicab, he fired another shot at the vehicle. The bullet lodged in McCarthy's back. The three other men received workhouse sentences.

KIDNAPED GIRL FREED ON PROMISE TO MARRY

Says She Was Beaten Until She Answered 'Yes.'

Leopoldo Rubino of 44 Columbia place, Brooklyn, reported to the police of the Butler street station that he had kidnapped his cousin, Miss Maria Moogers, buttonhole maker, had been kidnapped by Stephano Shiacchitano and two other men who threw her into an automobile. Rubino's son tried to free them, but they tried to kill him. Shiacchitano hit him in the nose.

At 10 o'clock Rubino reported that the girl had returned home. She said that Shiacchitano had taken her to Bath Beach and had beaten her until she promised to marry him. Then he brought her home on the subway. If he promises to claim the girl as his bride, Detective Murphy will be on hand to claim him for kidnapping.

Her attorney, James A. Murray, asked for a postponement of two weeks to file motions. Judge Crain gave him until November 6.

$60,000 DIAMONDS REPORTED STOLEN

Gold and Cash Belonging to Fulton Street Firm Also Missing From Safe.

LOCKS ARE ALL RESET

Police Heard of Robbery on Monday, but Made No Announcement.

Members of the firm of Sluyter & Blitz, diamond cutters and importers of 129 Fulton street, discovered when they opened their place for business last Monday morning that $60,000 worth of uncut diamonds, all but one of them owned by the concern, had been stolen some time since 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, when the safe was locked. In addition to this the members of the firm notified the police that there were missing also a quantity of gold and a small sum in cash, the total value of which detectives said they did not know.

The Police Department did not report the robbery and every effort appears to have been made to keep the facts secret, but news of the loss of the diamonds leaked out last night at headquarters. Detectives of the safe and lock squad found that the safe had not been blown or apparently tampered with in any way. One of the members of the firm unlocked the outer door by using the combination, he unlocked the inner door with a key, and then he unlocked the combination of the strong box—and found the diamonds and the gold and the money missing.

The detectives found that it is evident that whoever got into the safe and stole the money must have known the combination for the outer door and the strong box and he made sure to keep a key that would unlock the inner door, because all of these three doors were locked when Sluyter & Blitz opened their Monday morning. The thief had unlocked the door, taken the diamonds and then locked the doors of the safe behind him.

The only thing about the whole office of Sluyter & Blitz that the thieves had broken into the place was the fact that the lock on the iron gate with which the office connects with a hall was smashed. It lay on the floor. The detectives also said that members of the firm told them they had purchased the business last May, and that at the time the combination of the safe was not known to anyone but the firm.

The safe was not broken into until after the robbery, but the police would not divulge the result of this phase of the investigation.

MACARTHUR ARRESTED ON MAN'S COMPLAINT

Denies Charge, but Is Found Guilty; Held for Sentence.

Less than a year since his indictment in New Jersey for alleged assault on two women, Alexander A. MacArthur, twenty-year-old artist and foster son of John R. MacArthur, engineer, was convicted yesterday of disorderly conduct on complaint of Paul Discheit, 27 years old, a Harlem barker. Discheit says they struck up an acquaintance in Central Park.

The artist denied the charge in Yonkersville court, where he demanded immediate discharge. He also insisted upon conducting his own defense without counsel, contrary to advice of Magistrate Hatting. He was found guilty and held for sentence on Friday.

The offense, not being indictable, MacArthur spent last night in Jefferson Market prison.

John R. MacArthur, 30 East Forty-second street, whose firm directed construction of the Astorham dam, is in Europe. Mrs. MacArthur, at the residence, 175 East Seventy-eighth street, declined to discuss the case. The second case, Arthur P. a law student, said the matter would be left to Emil Fuchs, the family attorney, who had not been reached last night.

Trial on the New Jersey indictments is still pending, having been blocked when Gov. Miller, satisfied with MacArthur's alibi, refused extradition.

GIRL ACCUSED OF THEFT FROM STUDENTS' BAGS

Caught Near Erasmus Hall Gymnasium Lockers.

Miss Frances Corn, 17 years old and slight, slipped into Erasmus Hall High School on Flatbush avenue, Brooklyn, according to a charge made, rifled purses of students and took a fountain pen and vanity case. Miss Madeline Smith, a gymnasium teacher, came upon and held her until Dr. J. Herbert Low, principal, appeared.

The girl gave her address as 324 Longwood avenue, The Bronx, and said she had entered Erasmus Hall High School. She entered Erasmus early Monday afternoon and managed to get into the locker room, it is charged, in which girls change clothing for gymnasium costumes. Students announced a loss of $6 from a dozen purses. She was taken to the Women's Night Court and held for the Court of Special Sessions, charged with unlawful entry.

LAWYER'S DEATH LAID TO MAN HE PROSECUTED

Relatives, Suspecting Black-jacking, Ask Inquiry.

Friends and relatives of Charles E. Colligan, former deputy Assistant District Attorney, who died Monday night in Bellevue Hospital, have asked the County of Special Sessions to investigate the circumstances of his death. It is their belief that he was blackjacked by some criminal he prosecuted years ago.

When Mr. Colligan was taken to Bellevue Hospital Saturday from 181st avenue and Thirtieth street, he told doctors that he had been struck over the head with a blackjack. He also told that the assailant offered an attack of paralysis some time ago. When he died the cause was put down as paralysis.

Dr. Charles Norris, Medical Examiner, said last night that an autopsy showed Mr. Colligan did not die directly from the effects of a blackjack, but from a large tumor on the brain. Mr. Colligan lived at 140 West Ninety-third street.

MINISTER 50 YEARS GIVES UP HIS FAITH

Dr. McConnell Publishes Renunciation in 'Confessions of an Old Priest.'

Turns to a 'Church of the Saviour-God, Untrammelled by Scriptures.'

The Rev. Samuel Davis McConnell, for a half century a widely known clergyman of the Protestant Episcopal Church, has written a book, "Confessions of an Old Priest," published yesterday by the MacMillan Company, in which he renounces the faith upon which Christian churches are founded, denies the divinity of Christ, and rejects as unworthy of serious consideration all principles which are recounted in the Old and New Testaments.

Dr. McConnell was rector of Holy Trinity Church in Brooklyn during the late nineties, when Lyman Abbott, nearby in Plymouth Church, was bringing upon himself the charge that he was "heretical" because he accepted the theory of evolution.

Later he went to All Souls' Church in Manhattan. He is now retired at his estate, Elliptic, near Easton, Md. He has written many books and essays, among them "The Evolution of Immortality."

In a chapter entitled "Jesus of the Gospels" Dr. McConnell asks how the Christian church came to have such an astounding growth? He prefers to believe that the man Jesus was only incidental in the establishment of the Christian church; that the church, in its creeds and its rites, has in it much more of paganism than of the life of Christ, and that the great religious yearning in that period is largely responsible for Jesus being seized upon by the thrusters as the "Messiah."

Summing up, Dr. McConnell says: "The educated and practical world are both alike steadily drawing away from the church. I have watched this movement for fifty years. Can anything be done to reverse it, or to turn it in a different direction? First of all the church must open her eyes and look. But she must look at things as they are to-day, not as they were in the fourth century, or the eighteenth century. She should no longer rest in a fool's paradise. Her task will not be an easy one."

The goal to which religion would seem to be moving is a church of the Saviour-God, freed from bondage to history, untrammelled by Scripture, unharmed by definitions, open without question to all who "mean life's crushing load" would find solace for their body and soul in symbolic union with the spirit and body of the broken God, "the promise of all religions, the cry which all creeds own."
